THE Massachusetts Mugwumps are once more bilarious, and the hunkers are corre spondingly chap fallen. The immediate cause is the refusal of the President to appoint Lovering United States marshal for that state. The Mugwump fuglers claim that the President is committed to their candidate. This is sad for the Boston b'hoys, who much regret that they were not reared in Baltimore. Massachusetts to Mugwump in its relation to the administration, while Maryland is Democatic straight. The Issues of the Next Campaign. The Richmond Whie sava:

After a careful reading of Senator Brown' speech, delivered in the Senate last Monday. In favor of the ropeal of the internal revenue laws, it seems surprising that any one who calls himself a Democrat should differ with him in regard to the propriety of that meas

It is generally believed that President It is generally believed that President Cleveland calls himself a Democrat, and yet he said officially that there was no reason why the internal revenue laws should be repealed.

The NATIONAL REPUBLICAN, which is not Democrat, agrees entirely with Senator Brown when he says:

The present system of internal revenue laws of the United States is an outrageous system of espionage, injustice, and wrong. It ought to have been abolished long since, and there can ertainly be no just reason for its long continsance. We are anxiously inquiring how we san get rid of an amount of surplus that is lowing into the treasury annually almost the equivalent of the amount collected under the Internal revenue system.

We do not need the money in the treasity.
We are not engaged in war, and there is no emergency that justifies its collection. Let us, therefore, return to the practice of the great men who formed this government, and of the great men who administered it for many years, who, as soon as the emergency had passed which called forth the quanturist of such laws, swept them from the statute-book; and let us, without delay, get id or internal law for by the internal government, with all its explaining, its bri-

The system is tigutraceous! and should s abolished root and branch, but not for the reasons given by Senator Brown in the closing sentence of his speech, which reads

ne follows: This return to the old familiar practice of the fathers in the better days of the republic will at once relieve us of the surplus in the treasury, and relieve Compress and the administration of all further colour assumed on that question.

Internal revenue taxation should be abolished because it is opposed to the theory of our government-because it onpresses the people in the tobacco tax and has built up the most enormous monopoly by the whisky tax that ever cursed a country-a monster devil fish whose tentacles are long enough to draw within its stifling embrace legislatures, Congresses, executive and even judicial officers.

The mere fact that the surplus embarrasses Congress and the administration is not a sufficient reason for the abolition of this odious system of war taxation, but the facts that it oppresses the people-decreases the circulation-makes a shrinkage in values, are good and sufficient reasons for the abrogation of the whole system.

But the Democrats will not do it. They want the 4,000 officeholders that are required to collect these taxes to aid them in the coming presidential election—they need their services and will retain them. They want the opportunity this law will give them to intimidate voters; they want the chance to force money out of the whisky ring and the rich tobacco manufacturers and they will not abolish the internal revepue system.

For the benefit of the Richmond Whig. from which we quoted, and other Virginia Democrats, we tell them that the Virginia Democratic representatives in Congress will not vote to abolish the internal revenue system. They will go back on their plat form, and Virginia and the country will have to depend upon the Republican fiftyfirst Congress to repeal the infamous inter

And the fifty first Congress will be Republican in both its branches, with a Republican President at the other end of the avenue, because the Republican party intends to accept the issues made by President Cleveland in his message. It will stand by the American protective system, which the President and his party oppose, and it will oppose the un-American system of internal taxes, which the President and his party uphold.

TON THE HILL,

Senate yesterday were several in favor of the prohibition of the liquor traffle, and for a constitutional amendment to that effect: and in favor of the World's Exposition in taken up—the question being on a verbal amendment offered by Mr. Hoar when the chandler, Saulabury, Hawley, Harris, Hale, and Call, and, after two interruptions by Mr. Riddleberger, who wanted the Senate to go into executive session, the bill was laid aside. Mr. Riddleberger's efforts were both defeated.

The bill was then laid aside, and Mr. Vance proceeded to address the Senate on the resolution offered by Mr. Brown, proposing to abolish internal revenue taxation. The lines, he said, had been drawn closely by the President's message on the subject of the surplus and taxation; the context had to be feught out squarely, and the question had to be decided unequivocally on its merits. That question was, Shodid taxation be enforced for the support of the government or for the enrichment of private individuals? Should money be collected from the people for public or for private purposes? No reputable hypothesis could be formed which presented any other phase of the question. The question was, Where should the reduction of taxes begin? The proposition of most of the Democratic senators (following the lead of the President) was to begin and end with tariff taxation. The Republicans on the other hand) proposed to begin by reducing only in part internal taxes, and by adding to the free list those things coming from abroad which did not compete with things made in this country—and the duty on which was, therefore, all revenue. For himself, he proposed to begin hy reducing only in part internal taxes and excessive tariff taxation. In North Carolina there was cause of complaint against each, but there was far more complaint as to the method of internal tax-ation than there was as to the amount.

The resolution was laid aside, and then the Blair educational bill was taken up and a constitutional argument made against it by Mr. Gray. His remarks were confined principally to criticism of the section which provided that copies of school books used be filed with the Interior Department. He objected to that on the ground that the history of the rebellion and of its authors would be placed before the risin

Mr. Gray had no doubt of that. The real danger to the republic, he said, was not in liliteracy, but in such bills as this, which were directed against the experiment of self-government.

Mr. Blair stated in reply to a portion of Mr. Gray's speech that in the southern states, which contained one-third of the population of the country, only $17,000,000 was estimated as being expended for achool purposes, as against $162,000,000 in the whole country. He won't hereafter have something to say in record to the Eraning Posities statistics.

The bill went over as the unfinish thusiness, and the Senate, at 1335 as arned till Monday.

Mr. Washington, of Tenuessee, presented the petition of the faculty of Vanderbilt University asking for the removal of tha tariff on books. Referred.

affect the revenue of the department, while it would undoubtedly extend a great convenience to business men.

Mr. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, favored the bill, though he took exception to the ruling of the department upon the permissible marks on the lower classes of mail matter. The pending bill, however, would meet the requirements of every interest which had been injuriously affected by that ruling.

The bill was then passed, and the House The bill was then passed, and the House went into committee of the whole (Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, in the chair) on the private calendar. The afternoon was consumed in the discussion of two bills of a private character—one to carry out the findings of the court of claims in the case of sames H. Ayers, and one referring to the court of claims the claim of the owners of the steamer J. N. Bunton. When the consumer of the steamer J. N. Bunton. When the consumer the latter.
